COMPETITORS . . . for the Ayd Medal in philosophy are (l. to r.) Joe Metz, Chuck Lancelotta, Paul Montgomery, and Jim Kane.

Mr. Brian McDermott, S. J. has announced that the Philosophy Department will sponsor the Ayd Medal Competition on Monday, May 11, in Cohn Hall from 9-11 A.M.

There will be four seniors competing for the Ayd Medal. Charles Lancelotta will discuss the relationship of Philosophy to Theology; Paul Montgomery will discuss its relation to Physics; James Kane will talk on its relationship to Scientific Philosophy; and Joseph Metz will speak on the relationship of Philosophy to Biology.

The four seniors were chosen on the basis of their philosophy marks. Each will be given 10 minutes to talk and may be questioned by the members of the Philosophy Department as well as by the student audience, which will consist primarily of juniors and seniors.

The judges will be members of the Philosophy Department and will judge the contestants on the content, the degree to which they get into the issue, and the way they handle the questions and objections.

This year's competition is different from that of previous years insofar as the contestants are given a specific rather than a general philosophy topic to talk on.

The winner will be announced on Graduation Day.

YR's Elect Griffin To Top Position

The Young Republicans have just completed their first year as a campus organization.

Next year's officers include: Jim Griffin, President; Dick Whitford, Vice-President; Norvelle Kittel, Corresponding Secretary; Mike Gorsalski, Recording Secretary; and Bill Collins, Treasurer. Miss Nevin is Club Moderator.

This year the YR's carried out a full program of activities. Among the guest speakers were Robert Gerstung, lecturing on precinct politics; Joseph Dukert, discussing Republican election strategy; and the Honorable Theodore McKeldin, speaking on the problems and prospects of Baltimore City.

Tentative plans call for Ted Agnew, Baltimore County executive, and John Glenn Beall, Jr., Minority leader at the House of Delegates, to be included in next year's program. Precinct work heads the list of activities in which the YR's will participate this coming September.

Entire School Can Participate In Annual Loyola Day Events

The annual Loyola Day program will be held in the gymnasium and on the athletic field next Friday, May 15.

Loyola Day features athletic events which vary in nature. Loyola Day will find the four classes competing against each other for a class trophy to be awarded the class attaining the most points. The winner of this trophy last year was the Class of 1964.

Class Ties

The purpose of Loyola Day is to foster stronger ties between the classes by bringing them together in athletic competition. There is an event suitable for every student's ability. Full participation of the student body will ensure the continuance of Loyola Day in future years.

Ribbons will be awarded to the winners of first, second, and third place in each event. The track events are the 100 yard dash, the 440 yard relay (four men) and the fat man's relay (four men).

Field events include the three legged race, the bag race, foul shooting, high jumps, volleyball, shot put, football throw for accuracy, the tug-of-war and the egg-throwing contest, which will feature the two-timed winning team of Alex Schlipp and Reed Cooke.

Entered Events

An individual can enter one track event and two field events. The tug-of-war will not be considered as one of the two field events. In other words, each student can enter two field events in addition to the tug-of-war and one track event.

A trophy will go to the best individual performer in the entire program which begins at 12 noon. The 11 A.M. class will be the last class of the day. All afternoon classes are canceled.

In the light of the canceling of classes, the students should note that Loyola Day is an officially sanctioned event.

Heats

Heats for the track events and a schedule of order for those participating in field events will be posted prior to the beginning of the program at 12:00 noon next Friday.

Co-chairmen of the Loyola Day program, John O'Shea and Bill Moeller, announce that all entries are to be turned into Bill McElroy at the Campus Shop before the deadline on Friday, May 8, 4 P.M. No entries will be accepted after this date. This means that entries close this afternoon.

Fr. W. A. Luijpen To Lecture Here On Meditations

The Philosophy Department of Loyola College will present Fr. William A. Luijpen, O.S.A. who will deliver a lecture entitled "Phenomenological Meditations," next Wednesday in Ruzicka Hall at 11 A.M.

Fr. Luijpen, addressed as Dr. Luijpen in Europe, studied at The Angelicum, a Dominican University in Rome, The Sorbonne, The Higher Institute of Philosophy in Louvain, and the University of Fribourg in Germany.

At present, Fr. Luijpen is a member of the faculty of the Augustinian Philosophicum of Eindhoven in the Netherlands. He is also a Visiting Professor of Philosophy at Duquesne University.

Fr. Luijpen has written many articles on contemporary philosophy, as well as two books entitled "Phenomenology and Aethism" and "Existential Phenomenology."

"Existential Phenomenology" is presently being used by Mr. Genevieve as a reference in his senior classes. Next year's students can look forward to this book as a permanent text.

Fr. Luijpen's book is an attempt to use the phenomenological method in such a way as to preserve what he considers the best insights of existential philosophy, while avoiding some of its notorious extremes.

Scabbard and Blade Names New Officers

Company I-11 of the National Society of Scabbard and Blade selected its new officers for the school year 1964-65, on April 22, 1964.

Paul A. Rohde will take over the duties of captain of Company I-11, replacing Sam W. Patterson Rea Jr.. Also elected were Charles T. revello, as vice-president, Ronald J. Smith, as treasurer, and Charles F. Hieber as secretary.

Bloodmobile Comes Today For Donors

The students and faculty of Loyola College are inaugurating a Red Cross Blood Program today.

The bloodmobile will be here today from 9:45 until 3:00 P.M. in Cohn Hall. All those who signed up to donate should report there. All others may contribute, but those under 21 must have written parental consent.

The blood is very much needed and will not be wasted. If it is not used for a transfusion in 21 days, it will be converted into plasma or blood derivatives, which will last indefinitely.

During the recent elections 186 students indicated that they would be willing to contribute blood.

This program covers the students and their immediate families. In addition to the student use, the blood enables the Red Cross to carry out its regional program.

When a transfusion is needed the blood is supplied free of charge by the Red Cross. However, many hospitals find it necessary to charge a laboratory fee.

IRC Features Lecture By Viet Nam Counselor

The International Relation Club of Loyola College will present Mr. Pham Khac Rau, Counselor of the Embassy of Viet Nam in Washington, who will speak upon the topic, "The Communist Threat in Viet Nam," on Wednesday evening, May 13, at 7:30 P.M.

The lecture will take place in the Student Lounge of the Andrew White Student Union Building, and a question and answer period will follow the lecture.

Mr. Rau was born in 1921 in Nam Dinh, North Viet Nam, and was graduated from the Faculty of Law at the University of Hanoi in 1942. In the following year, he entered the Civil Service, and became District Chief Officer. Mr. Rau held this position until 1945, and then became Chief Revenue Officer at Hanoi (1948-50).

In 1950 Mr. Rau transferred to the Foreign Service, and served in the Foreign Ministry in Saigon from 1950-54. From 1954-58 Mr. Rau, as the Consul of Viet Nam in Singapore, also served as the Charge d'Affaires for Viet Nam to Malaya.

From 1958-63 he served as Director of Public Relations at the office of the President of the Republic of Saigon.

Mr. Rau came to the United States in October to become the Counselor of the Embassy of Viet Nam in Washington. Currently he is also serving as Charge d'Affaires at the embassy.

Scholtes Accepts Gold Medal Award

Bill Scholtes of the Class of 1965 will be the recipient of the Jenkin's Gold Medal for the second consecutive year.

Competition for this award was conducted on Thursday, April 30. Other participants were Loyola varsity debaters Denny Keating, Dick Fleming, and Dan Kelleher.

Judging the competition were Father Connor, Father Borribon, and Judge Perrott. The subject of this annual Evergreen Debate was the 1964-65 national debating topic, "Resolved: that the Federal Government should guarantee an opportunity for higher education to every qualified high school graduate."

Scholtes, Colley Win Gold Medals In Lee Contest

The Lee Oratorical Contest, conducted on April 29, was one of the more successful in recent years.

Twelve students competed for Lee Gold Medals in the two divisions, Original Oratory and Declamation.

The winner of the first-named competition was Bill Scholtes, with an address entitled "The Constitution--Worth Having; Worth Defending."

The runners-up were Joe Colley with "Youth in a Troubled World" and Dick Fleming with "The Peace Corps--It's Value to Our Nation."

In declamation, a second member of the class of 1965 took the top prize. Joe Colley won the first place award with his presentation of "Death of a Salesman."

Chuck Lancelotta of the Class of 1964 took second with his rendition of MacArthur's "Honor, Duty, and Country." Third prize went to Dick Fleming of the Class of 1967 with Senator Mansfield's moving "Eulogy to John Fitzgerald Kennedy."

Not Only Pyramids

Congratulations to those whose recent efforts have resulted in plans for an inter-social committee of Notre Dame and Loyola. This is a step toward better feeling between the two neighboring student bodies, and we hope, toward the elimination of the mutual prejudices reflected in the Notre Dame interview which was recently printed in The GREYHOUND.

If all goes well, Loyola students will demonstrate that they are good for more than making pyramids.

This innovation is not a panacea for all the problems in the relationship between the two colleges. We are optimistic, however, because the committee does have the potential to initiate some needed improvements.

Now, for instance, Notre Dame and Loyola will be able to take advantage of the proximity of the two campuses by planning combined dances, concerts and lectures and by co-operating in the co-ordination of their individual functions so as not to conflict or compete with each other.

But this certainly is not all that can be accomplished. The committee, which Loyola will set up on this campus next year and which is already in existence at Notre Dame, is sure to come up with bigger and better ideas.

This committee has already planned a mixer to take place after the lacrosse game on May 16. This is only a start but definitely a good one. The GREYHOUND intends to do its best to promote many more such functions between the two schools.

We do urge all students who can possibly make it to the game and the barbecue-mixer afterward on Notre Dame's campus to do so. This does not mean bring dates. Just come with a dollar in your hand and enjoy yourself. In particular we would like to see those students who have a bad impression of Notre Dame girls to be there. Possibly this image will be erased and interest increased.

Sitting around complacently will not solve anything. Discussing mutual problems with good will interjected by both sides will accomplish an end.

A Misjudgement

It has come to our attention that some students and some faculty members were appalled by The GREYHOUND's refusal to print a letter by the President of the Student Council. The letter has been posted on the bulletin boards around campus for all to see.

We realize that this refusal might have been an inaccurate judgment on our part. We here publicly make amends for this misjudgment. We admit that as head of the Student Council he has the right to have his opinions published in The GREYHOUND—providing that they are responsibly written and in good taste.

This is especially pertinent to our critical editorial on his actions concerning the appointments of the members of the Elections Committee.

We have good reasons for not publishing the above mentioned reply to our editorial. We believe that the GREYHOUND should not be used as a medium for pet peeves, petty sniping, or the grinding of axes. We felt that by printing this letter, a private war would result between The GREYHOUND and the Student Council President.

We also felt that everything said by him in his reply was a reiteration of what was said in a previous letter of April 17 which was posted on the official bulletin boards and from which we quoted in our editorial. In our opinion we believed that the issue should be dropped and forgotten and not carried out in reply after reply until the end of the year.

By printing his defense we would feel obligated to answer it thus stirring up trouble unnecessarily so. We are convinced that our editorial was what we believed to be true and we still stick to its contents.

The point in question is that our editorial ("Lancelotta's Law") seems to have been taken as a personal insult. This was not our intention. We only wished to express our opinions based on the facts we had collected, and to make them known publicly.

The Minute Man

By Gary Atkinson

The following is an interview between the newly elected President of the Student Body, Dennis Keating, and Gary Atkinson, GREYHOUND reporter on Student Council proceedings:

Atkinson: Do you plan to bring about any change in the Student Council which will renew the students' faith in this organization?

Keating: The Student Council can and will represent the Student Body in this coming year. The most important task before the Council is the translation of the enthusiasm and interest engendered in the past few weeks into meaningful action next year.

Constitutional changes designed to "open" the Council to the students, much closer contact between the students and their representatives, and a well planned program should all contribute to a renewal of the students' faith in this organization.

Junior Weekend

Atkinson: As the person who inaugurated the Junior Weekend, do you feel that this practice will be continued?

Keating: I would hope that the idea of a Junior Weekend will become an established tradition at Loyola, although I do not feel that a Junior Prom is an absolutely necessary and integral part of a Junior Weekend.

This first Junior Weekend was a success socially, if not financially, and I think that all who participated enjoyed themselves immensely.

Game Room

Atkinson: Do you think Loyola should have a game room?

Keating: I would very much like to see a well equipped and readily accessible game room on campus. Provision should be made for such a facility as soon as space becomes available.

Unfortunately this will probably prove impossible until after the construction of the new library building.

Girls' Colleges

Atkinson: How can we improve our relations with the various girls' schools in the area?

Keating: The newly instituted mixer program, which will most likely be improved and expanded next year, and such projects as the upcoming "LAND A'hoy," post-lacrosse game barbecue and mixer are a step in the right direction.

I think that the exchange of students between Loyola and neighboring women's colleges will also help to improve social relations among these schools.

The opening of an improved film seminar program to girls from these colleges, joint field days, jointly sponsored lectures, concerts, and parties, and other such activities would also help the situation.

Class social committees can also be of great value.

FIRST FRIDAY MASS

Atkinson: Do you feel that the compulsory First Friday Mass will be discontinued next year?

Keating: I could always assume the character of an oracle and answer by way of a riddle, but then I would be artfully dodging the issue at best.

The most that I can say at this time is that the Council will do everything in its power next year to effect a solution to this difficult situation.

We will work to present a suitable

The Watchdog?!

Although most of the members of the junior class participated in the Junior Weekend, the English majors are to be especially commended. They spent most of Friday night, not in the ballroom at the prom, but doing research in the Falstaff room of the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel.

Dave Schroeder and Bob Kammer, hosts of the "receptions," arrived late with well-oiled sour dispositions.

The featured guest at said receptions was Fr. Lavin, who did all in his power to stimulate the conversation with his witty quips about Milton's grandmother and her theory of Homer's hades.

Willie Hoffman should participate in more Junior Weekends—he lost 15 pounds during the last one. Too much liquid and not enough to eat. Sooner or later, if he keeps up this pace, he will not be around to be featured in the Watchdog.

Last Saturday the junior class gayly "floated" down the Bay on Baltimore's nautical wonder, the Port Welcome. Many of the notables of the Class of '65 made spectacular appearances:

Bill Scholtes amazed all by sliding from stern to stern on his very own stern.

Denny Keating ran from port to starboard all night trying his best to "rock the boat."

Gary Heubeck told all the girls about the nightmare he had earlier about being thrown overboard and swallowed by a green pickle. Instead of which he met Mable the Label and Harry Brinewater.

Pete Mastrangelo paraded around the decks in his Japanese combat boots and his CARE package shorts.

Orv Mowbray showed up wearing his ROTC campaign ribbons and displaying his battle scars.

Marty Pilachowski became alarmed about his "condition; and demanded an immediate life-boat drill.

The late Tony Rash consumed vast quantities of sea water and ice and...

Bryan Miller received a military funeral at sea after being embalmed the previous night.

Unfortunately after the trip several students had trouble with their cars: Tom Kane work up to the fact that he was stuck in 12 inches of mud. After such a smashing good time, Tom, now the owner of a half-track, is giving driving lessons to interested parties for a fee.

Joe Colley tried to launch his car into the Bay from a cement ramp.

The Dog had a great time also, sitting on top of one of the juniors' garbage can. It was most cool to say the least. Even the hired cop had an easy night (boy, did he ever look thirsty). Everyone still wonders how the boat was turned around without tipping over.

The Reviewing Stand

'Lilies of the Field'
An Award Performance

By Bob Garvey

"Lilies of the Field" is a simple, unpretentious film that is more moving and effective than most of the multi-million dollar productions that comprise the usual movie fare today.

As the movie opens, Homer Smith, a drifter, drives up to a small battered building to get some water for his car. This battered building happens to be a convent for five nuns from East Germany. The mother superior of this small group immediately assumes that Homer has been sent from God to build a chapel for them. The trick is to convince Schmidt, as the nuns call Smith, of this fact.

The superior convinces Smith that he should stay overnight and do some odd jobs for them. This one day soon becomes weeks. As Smith begins to realize the situation of these German speaking nuns who are penniless and alone in a strange land, he is moved by pity, respect, and the superior into building this chapel.

"Lilies of the Field" is not a melodrama. At times it threatens to become overly sentimental, but it never does because of the relationship between the Negro Smith and the mother superior. Since the mother superior believes Smith is only an instrument of God, she never thanks him for his work or even allows him to rest or relax while the job is unfinished.

Mutual Respect

Smith is, at first, dumbfounded and amused by this attitude. Gradually and subtly a mutual respect develops between the two. At the end of the film, it is difficult to say who is dominating who.

Also, any possibility of the film's becoming a tear-jerker are the many comic elements of the film. Smith's attempts to teach the nuns english and a scene in which he is presented one small egg for breakfast after a day of hard work are two such scenes that had the large audience at the Playhouse laughing loudly.

The acting is uniformly excellent. Lila Scala plays the mother superior, and she gives a superior performance. She gives the character a certain warmth under her authoritative, impersonal exterior. Sidney Poitier, as Homer Smith, more than deserves the Oscar he won for the role. He makes Smith an individual with honor and intelligence, who is an able match for the mother superior. He does not make the character a one-sided goodie-goodie type, but he presents him as a hep individual, who has his faults and virtues. Poitier, also, shows an excellent flair for comedy in this role.

"Lilies of the Field" has no beautiful starlets, no sick characters, and no sick situations. It is about people, uncommonly human people, rather than the uncommonly common people that have been moving on the screen lately. It is a rewarding and entertaining motion picture.

Loyola, Notre Dame To Promote Unity

has already been written the poor social bond that unites Loyola and Notre Dame Colleges. The important question to ask is: Is it at fault for bringing this situation into being?" Loyola boys at Loyola will say the fault is at Notre Dame, that they act like "snobs." The Notre Dame will say the fault is at Loyola because they are like babies.

Is right and who is wrong? There is a more reasonable solution than the ones offered.

The truth is that snobbery and animosity exist at all colleges. If one is unfortunate enough to come in contact with it, in large or small doses, then that person is bound to tell his or her friends of the experience and discourage them from investigating the charges on their own.

Little Evidence
It seems that this has happened in the relationship of Loyola and Notre Dame.

Too much extrapolation has come from a little evidence. For every snob or baby at a college, there are hundreds of other people who are friendly, intelligent, conversationalists.

Of course I used the term deplorable, but this is just the word to use to describe the state of affairs that exist between the two colleges. The proximity, the similarity, and the fact that the two colleges make them matches. The farce of calling Loyola's "sister college" has gone far enough. Notre Dame is the proper college with which to ally.

Academic Advantage
The completely male and completely female institutions are usually better from a scholastic viewpoint, but then too there are advantages in having the views of the opposite sex upon academic topics.

But all male and all female institutions are limited, to say the least, when it comes to social functions. The students must extend themselves beyond their college to obtain dates.

There is a world of possibilities in the extension of the social relationship of our two colleges.

Loyola Day and Notre Dame Day could be combined for the mutual enjoyment of all students. Following this there could be a mutually sponsored "barbecue," followed that night by a mixer.

Mixed Company
Picnics and field trips could be organized, as well as bridge tournaments, badminton, bowling, movie seminars, book reviewing clubs, poetry workshops, small group discussions of controversial subjects, and the list could go on and on.

The apathy that has existed is finally starting to change into an awareness of the potential contained in the combination of the two schools.

The first "Forum" article raised much comment from the students of both schools, and an effort has been initiated to erase the image that was formerly prevalent at Notre Dame.

It is easy to get carried away into thinking that the projects that are being planned are going to be part of a happy, carefree, never-failing matching process. It doesn't take a college education to realize that to get every Loyola boy and every Notre Dame girl a date for every affair, would be an extremely difficult, if not impossible, task.

PR's To Participate In World's Fair
The Pershing Rifles will attend the New York World's Fair Drill Meet sponsored by Boston College on May 10.

The trick drill team commander, P/R Capt. John J. Pryzybylski, in conjunction with the deputy drill team commander, P/R 1st Lt. John Miller, has worked out an excellent routine. Much has gone into perfecting this difficult and intricate routine. The team has been practicing since early February.

Starting May 4, they began using Springfield rifles and bayonets for the first time this school year. With the experience of the Cherry Blossom Festival and the Annual Regimental Drill Meet, and the with the advantage of the Springfield, which are lighter and easier to handle than the M-1's, the team is looking forward with great enthusiasm to the World's Fair Drill Meet.

Christians and Jews Will Meet To Demonstrate Group Dynamics
There will be a meeting of the college section of the National Conference of Christians and Jews at Coppin State College on Sunday May 10 at 7:30 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting will be to give a demonstration of group dynamics. This entails a round-table discussion of the effects and nature of prejudice in America. And it is hoped that there will be some definite blueprints for removing this blight from society through the joint efforts of men of all faiths.

Such a Committee has been formed and has already planned a mixer type barbecue for May 16 after Loyola's lacrosse game.

The formation of this committee to act as a go between for the student bodies of both colleges is but a mere start, but one that may lead to a very rewarding, and long lasting relationship between Notre Dame and Loyola.

Summer Slack
It is, however, unfortunate that the students' "great awakening" came so late in the year, because during the summer both colleges may tend to slip back into their old habits of poor inter-relations.

But then too there may be some advantages to this fact. With warmer weather coming up it is more convenient to schedule informal activities, which would probably be the best way to start.

Also in the spring of the year there are more places to go, that will accommodate large numbers of people.

In conclusion I would like to make a plea to all responsible students at both colleges to do their utmost in helping to make the Loyola-Notre Dame bond a lot tighter than it is now.

Co-ed Functions
All that is really needed is a start, and once the activities begin to fall into a regular pattern, more and more people will realize that mixed company is not so bad after all.

One thing that would be advantageous from this point of view, would be to have an effectively functioning Joint Activities Committee to coordinate the social functions of both schools.

Atkinson: Do you plan to do anything about creating a student disciplinary board and an honor system?

Keating: Both of these projects must be presented as proposals to the Student Body first in order for the Student Council to discover what support they would receive from the students.

I think that many students would favor one or both of these ideas. The real question is just how many students would support them.

If the student response justifies it, the Student Council should be able to present workable plans to achieve these objectives.

'Land Ahoy' At NDM To Hold Barbecue Mixer

LAND Ahoy! Loyola and Notre Dame students have been seeing this slogan for the past few days. Just what does it mean?

The letters stand for Loyola and Notre Dame. The purpose is to foster better social relations between the two neighboring colleges.

On Thursday, April 30 the student leaders of Loyola met at Notre Dame with their student leaders to set up a social coordinating committee to exist in each school. Each school would handle elections of its respective members in their own way. The committee would not be an absolute authority to overrule the individual activities on each campus.

The first function set up is the Loyola-Notre Dame barbecue and mixer after the lacrosse game on Saturday, May 16. The game starts at 2:30 p.m. against C.W. Post College of Long Island, N.Y. Anyone may attend the game. But after the game there is the barbecue on Notre Dame's campus only for the Loyola and Notre Dame students.

The charge is $1 per person. This will pay for the food and soft drinks. The Saratogas will play for the evening's mixer and dance, after the food is served.

The dress is casual but no bermudas are allowed. Also please do not bring dates. This is a mixer—not a dated affair. Tickets will be sold starting this Monday by class representatives and will also be sold in the lobby of the Student Union Building. This first function is only a start with many more to come next year.

Loyola, Notre Dame To Promote Unity

Much has already been written about the poor social bond that unites Loyola and Notre Dame Colleges. The important question to ask is: "Who is at fault for bringing this deplorable situation into being?" The boys at Loyola will say the girls at Notre Dame are at fault, because they act like "snobs." The girls at Notre Dame will say the boys at Loyola are at fault because they act like babies.

Who is right and who is wrong? And is there a more reasonable explanation than the ones offered above.

The truth is that snobbery and immaturity exist at all colleges. If someone is unfortunate enough to come in contact with it, in large or small doses, then that person is inclined to tell his or her friends about the experience and discourage them from investigating the charges on their own.

Little Evidence

It seems that this has happened in the relationship of Loyola and Notre Dame.

Too much extrapolation has come from too little evidence. For every one snob or baby at a college, there are hundreds of other people who are excellent company and friendly, intelligent conversationalists.

Above I used the term deplorable, and this is just the word to use to describe the state of affairs that now exist between the two colleges.

The proximity, the similarity, and size of the two colleges make them ideal matches. The farce of calling Mt. St. Agnes, Loyola's "sister college," has gone far enough. Notre Dame is the proper college with which to ally.

Academic Advantage

Completely male and completely

The Readers' Right

Dear Mr. Atkinson:

In response to your article of April 17 (NDM Girls Discuss Loyola College Image) we would like to present some points for your consideration.

A truly representative cross-section of Notre Dame students was not included in the article, since the sophomores and juniors were not approached.

Granted--the bonds between our two colleges are weak, but we are in full accordance with any future steps taken to strengthen and solidify our scholastic and social interaction. As far as opinions are concerned, we feel that since the whole situation is obviously based on a lack of continued contact, a justly based statement cannot be made.

Therefore, let us move to unify our scholastic and social links, and then we can talk about opinions (if any will be necessary then) in a constructive manner.

Closing on an optimistic note, we remain hopeful that Loyola gentlemen and Notre Dame young ladies will profit from closer relations.

Future friends of Loyola Editors' note: the interview in question was one taken at random, and using the only girls available at the time.

The students we spoke to were so unanimous in their opinion, that although we were surprised, we took this to be the prevalent opinion of the Student Body.

We are pleased to find that there are some students who don't think the situation is as bad as we thought.

female institutions are usually better from a scholastic viewpoint, but then too there are advantages in having the views of the opposite sex upon academic topics.

But all male and all female institutions are limited, to say the least, when it comes to social functions. The students must extend themselves beyond their college to obtain dates.

There is a world of possibilities in the extension of the social relationship of our two colleges.

Loyola Day and Notre Dame Day could be combined for the mutual enjoyment of all students. Following this there could be a mutually sponsored "barbecue," followed that night by a mixer.

Mixed Company

Picnics and field trips could be organized, as well as bridge tournaments, badminton, bowling, movie seminars, book reviewing clubs, poetry workshops, small group discussions of controversial subjects, and the list could go on and on.

The apathy that has existed is finally starting to change into an awareness of the potential contained in the combination of the two schools. The first "Forum" article raised much comment from the students of both schools, and an effort has been initiated to erase the image that was formerly prevalent at Notre Dame.

It is easy to get carried away into thinking that the projects that are being planned are going to be part of a happy, carefree, never-failing matching process. It doesn't take a college education to realize that to get every Loyola boy and every Notre Dame girl a date for every affair, would be an extremely difficult, if not impossible, task.

PR's To Participate In World's Fair

The Pershing Rifles will attend the New York World's Fair Drill Meet sponsored by Boston College on May 10.

The trick drill team commander, p/r Capt. John J. Przybylski, in conjunction with the deputy drill team commander, P/R 1st Lt. John Miller, has worked out an excellent routine. Much has gone into perfecting this difficult and intricate routine. The team has been practicing since early February.

Starting May 4, they began using Springfield rifles and bayonets for the first time this school year. With the experience of the Cherry Blossom Festival and the Annual Regimental Drill Meet, and the with the advantage of the Springfield fields, which are lighter and easier to handle than the M-1's, the team is looking forward with great enthusiasm to the World's Fair Drill Meet.

Christians and Jews Will Meet To Demonstrate Group Dynamics

There will be a meeting of the college section of the National Conference of Christians and Jews at Coppin State College on Sunday May 10 at 7:30 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting will be to give a demonstration of group dynamics. This entails a round-table discussion of the effects and nature of prejudice in America. And it is hoped that there will be some definite blueprints for removing this blight from society through the joint efforts of men of all faiths.

Coppin is located at 2500 West North Avenue, and all are invited to attend this meeting in the hope that a better understanding of the problems of prejudice will come about.

For further information see Father Conlin.

Co-ed Functions

All that is really needed is a start, and once the activities begin to fall into a regular pattern, more and more people will realize that mixed company is not so bad after all.

One thing that would be advantageous from this point of view, would be to have an effectively functioning Joint Activities Committee to coordinate the social functions of both schools.

Such a Committee has been formed and has already planned a mixer type barbecue for May 16 after Loyola's lacrosse game.

The formation of this committee to act as a go between for the student bodies of both colleges is but a mere start, but one that may lead to a very rewarding, and long lasting relationship between Notre Dame and Loyola.

Summer Slack

It is, however, unfortunate that the students' "great awakening" came so late in the year, because during the summer both colleges may tend to slip back into their old habits of poor inter-relations.

But then too there may be some advantages to this fact. With warmer weather coming up it is more convenient to schedule informal activities, which would probably be the best way to start.

Also in the spring of the year there are more places to go, that will accommodate large numbers of people.

In conclusion I would like to make a plea to all responsible students at both colleges to do their utmost in helping to make the Loyola-Notre Dame bond a lot tighter than it is now.

solution to the problem, one which the Student Body has indicated concerns it greatly.

Student Board

Atkinson: Do you plan to do anything about creating a student disciplinary board and an honor system?

Keating: Both of these projects must be presented as proposals to the Student Body first in order for the Student Council to discover what support they would receive from the students.

I think that many students would favor one or both of these ideas. The real question is just how many students would support them.

If the student response justifies it, the Student Council should be able to present workable plans to achieve these objectives.

'Land Ahoy' At NDM To Hold Barbecue Mixer

LAND Ahoy! Loyola and Notre Dame students have been seeing this slogan for the past few days. Just what does it mean?

The letters stand for Loyola and Notre Dame. The purpose is to foster better social relations between the two neighboring colleges.

On Thursday, April 30 the student leaders of Loyola met at Notre Dame with their student leaders to set up a social coordinating committee to exist in each school. Each school would handle elections of its respective members in their own way. The committee would not be an absolute authority to overrule the individual activities on each campus.

The first function set up is the Loyola-Notre Dame barbecue and mixer after the lacrosse game on Saturday, May 16. The game starts at 2:30 p.m. against C.W. Post College of Long Island, N.Y. Anyone may attend the game. But after the game there is the barbecue on Notre Dame's campus only for the Loyola and Notre Dame students.

The charge is $1 per person. This will pay for the food and soft drinks. The Saratogas will play for the evening's mixer and dance, after the food is served.

The dress is casual but no bermudas are allowed. Also please do not bring dates. This is a mixer--not a dated affair. Tickets will be sold starting this Monday by class representatives and will also be sold in the lobby of the Student Union Building. This first function is only a start with many more to come next year.

Hounds drill defense for final games.

Stickmen Score Easy Win Over Teachers of Towson

By Stan Hellman

Loyola defeated Towson 8-1 in lacrosse last week to improve their record to four wins, two losses, and one tie; the game was the first of the season in which the stickmen had a relatively easy time of winning.

Five minutes into the first quarter goalie Tony Federico cleared the ball himself through the entire Towson defensive network and set up a fast break. His feed to Lou Becker was converted into a goal and Federico was credited with an assist, a rare occurrence for a player on the defensive side of the field.

From that time the Hounds had a relatively easy victory. Bill Asher tallied three times to be high scorer for the team. Two of these were on long shots, one directly of Jim Norton's feed. His final goal and the final one of the game for the Hounds was on a pass from Denny Palmer to Asher, standing in front of the goal.

John Stewart scored twice, bringing his season total to fourteen. Henry Stewart scored once on a fast break, and John White notched his first goal of the year. John has been shooting hard luck all year, piping his best shots continually, but finally put one between the poles for his first collegiate goal.

To complete the scoring statistics, Loyola shot the ball forty-seven times as compared to the twenty-three shots thrown by Towson State.

Federico came within a minute of getting a shutout, but Bob Sharkey's quickstick went past Tony's shoulder. Tony Federico was aided by some sound defensive work. Tim Martin, Jack Palmer, and Dan Hartman did the bulk of the work, and Bob Lister, Bill McGinnis, Colin Delpi, and Frank Sauer also worked on the close defense.

Three games remain on the lacrosse schedule. All three figure to be close and exciting. On May 7, Washington and Lee will invade Loyola; two days later Hofstra College will do the same. On May 16 the Hounds will have a showdown with C. W. Post College, led by Bill Postel, the nation's number one scorer last year. A gala affair is planned after the Post game, with many new lacrosse fans attending.

Six Game Losing Streak Plagues Hound Bagmen

By Mario Musotto

The Hounds lost a close 2-1 ballgame to Johns Hopkins University on Wednesday afternoon. JHU pitcher Dick Bauer pitched a one-hitter to defeat the bagmen. Sophomore pitcher Howie Murray yielded the two runs on seven hits and a walk. The Hounds failed to score with the bases loaded with none out. Thus, a tough defeat 2-1.

The Loyola baseball team extended its losing streak to six games, the longest in several seasons.

Loyola played a home and away weekend series with Georgetown. The hounds lost the home game 7-3 and lost the away game 5-2. In the first game, Rich McLaughlin broke up a 2-2 tie with a single to right that drove in two runs for Georgetown. Gene Lacey pitched four innings in relief without yielding a hit.

On Sunday the Hounds jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first, but the Hoyas tied the game on Tom Hamm's two run homer. The Hounds could not mount any threat after the first frame, as the Georgetown pitcher, Larry Leonhart hurled a six-hitter. Jack Cunco gave up only four hits, but walked fourteen and was in contest trouble.

Against Western Maryland, Loyola lost a tough 2-0 game on Wednesday. WM's Scott Joyner gave up only three hits and struck out ten. WM scored both of their runs in the second inning on four hits and one walk. Relmond Van Daniker settled down and retired eighteen of the next nineteen batters he faced.

Washington College Loses To Mac's Hustling Hounds

By Fred Dumser

Sprinter Bob Garvey readies for first hurdle.

Our track team did it again on Tuesday, downing Towson State 71-64. Billy Morris put on a show again as he accumulated 17½ personal points plus entering in the two winning Loyola relay teams. Billy gained two firsts (broad jump and triple jump), one second (100 yard dash), and two thirds (high jump and 220 yard dash).

A week and a half ago Loyola's thinclads invaded the Chestertown campus of Washington College and brought home a 71-65 victory.

In a meet that was closely contested, both on the track and in the field events, the deciding event was the mile relay. Leading 66-65 going into the event, the Hounds preserved the victory with a win in 3:39.

The Hounds started the meet and ended it with a relay victory. Starting the Greyhounds rolling with a 440 yard relay win, the team of Tony Ryan, Lew Schaffner, Tony Virgilio, and anchorman Bill Morris ran the quarter mile in 45:8. This was the first of eight Loyola firsts.

Wins from Tony Virgilio in the 100 yard dash, Bill Morris in the triple jump, Jim Creamer in the pole vault, Steve Register in the discus, and sophomore Lew Schaffner in the 330 yard intermediate hurdles sparked the running effort.

Saturday May 2 saw the Loyola runners meet the thinclads from Gallaudet here at Evergreen. Dropping the 53-83 contest to a strong Gallaudet squad, the Hounds showed marked individual improvement.

Senior captain Charlie Cherry's 5 foot 10 inch high jump brought home a Loyola first. Sophomore Lew Schaffner set a new school record in the 120 yard high hurdles by covering the distance in 15:7. Lew ran second behind another new track mark.

Two other sophomores, Tony Virgilio in the 100 and 200 yard dashes, and Jim Creamer in the pole-vault, were double winners.

Injured in the same meet, and out for the season, was sprinter Tony Ryan. Sustaining a leg injury in the 100 yard dash, he was unable to continue in the meet.

Swim Coach Bill Klarner Retires After 14 Years

By Dan Whalen

Swimming coach William E. Klarner, Jr. is retiring from the athletic staff of Loyola after 14 years service. He leaves to assume the head swimming coach position at Johns Hopkins University.

As head swimming coach for the Greyhounds, "Big Bull" proudly claims eight Mason-Dixon Championships in his fourteen years at the Evergreen.

Mr. Klarner was also instrumental in improving the quality of Loyola's swimmers, notably Ken Freimuth, Marty Pilsch, Tom Jeffers, and Al Kubeluis.

Commenting on this loss, Athletic Director, Emil G. "Lefty" Reitz said, "I'm very sorry to see him go; not only is Bill a good coach, but a personal friend. We all wish him the best of luck in his new position at Hopkins."

Coach Klarner not only finds himself in a new position next year, but he will also open Hopkins new indoor pool next fall.

A new swimming coach has not been named by Lefty at this time, but needless to say the incumbent coach will have a formidable record to compete against—eight Mason-Dixon titles in 14 years.

Focus On Sports

By Bernie Vondersmith

This week the spotlight falls on Lefty Reitz's veteran mound man Relmond Van Daniker.

Relmond came to Evergreen after a year at the Air Force Academy, beginning his education as a science major. The cocky southpaw subsequently switched to Business, where he has excelled.

Rel has already been notified

about two assistantships from the University of Maryland and the University of Pittsburgh. These are the rewards of moving his QPA over the 3.0 mark.

On the mound he has been just as successful, compounding wins for the Greyhound batsmen over a three year period.

Relmond's baseball career began at Loyola High School and has been augmented by his pitching appearances with the Leone's team; he was also one of the youngest men ever to hurl for this amateur team.

A berth on the Polar Bears intramural basketball squad is another claim to fame. Relmond's eye made a contribution to both of the Bears' winning teams.

The senior pitcher is also known for his culinary appreciation and has been seen using his golden arm to handle a fork covered with spaghetti.

Athletic Gems

The following little "bits of advice" were acquired from the athletic department's bulletin board which is located outside of the locker rooms.

There is an ounce of truth in some of these quips and pounds in others. One's first reaction is to laugh at them, the second is to mull over them the slightest bit, and then put them into action.

"Who passed the ball to you when you scored?"

Act like a heel toward teammates and you'll get walked on.

Respect every team . . . FEAR NONE!

Do not mistake activity for achievement.

No one has ever drowned in sweat. THE BEST PLAYERS help others to be best players.

It takes a cool head to win a hot game.

Attitudes are more important than facts.

If a man's education is finished—he is finished.

I am a great believer in luck—but the harder I work the more luck seem to have."

Other news and views about athletics and sports may be found periodically on this same bulletin board.
